PART A: PURSUERS OF THE FUTURE

Sunderland Culture is working on a new project called Pursuers of the Future!

We are staging a community play, specifically written for Sunderland, about hopes and dreams for the future of the city.

The play will be written by writer Scott Young and will be staged later this year in Sunderland.

Scott is challenging you to write or draw something inspired by Sunderland.

You can choose what to draw or write but Scott has given some ideas! Watch his video to find out more!

- You could write a letter to another place in the world telling or showing them what you love about Sunderland
- You could write a letter to your future self asking them how things have changed in Sunderland (You could write a reply too)
- You could make a poster of all your favourite parts of Sunderland
- You could make a list of all the wishes you have for Sunderland

Pursuers of the Future is a project produced by Sunderland Culture through our Great Place programme and made possible by National Lottery players, funded by Arts Council England and National Lottery Heritage Fund.
